

Woodguard Structural Lumber

Woodguard is a structural building material that outlasts conventional untreated lumber and replaces lumber treated with prohibited substances. It's more cost effective than wood, vinyl, steel or concrete products and requires no maintenance or painting. Even the most durable species of lumber deteriorate from insect and dry rot decay. Now you have an economical alternative with Woodguard made with a non-toxic, inert borate compound to protect against these threats. After treatment, our lumber is then coated in an engineered, UV-stabilized plastic blend that gives Woodguard its superior strength, life span and durability.
